Wednesdays @ Weingarten is a series of programs for Penn faculty and staff. This new program grew out of conversations with Penn faculty and staff about the ways our undergraduate and graduate students learn and the ways we can encourage their intellectual growth. Wednesdays @ Weingarten extends the Weingarten Center’s conversations with individual faculty and staff to a group setting. All programs will present information and examples and allow time for interaction and questions.

Optimizing Access for Students with Disabilities: SDS and Faculty Collaboration
Wednesday, April 23, 2014, 2:00 – 3:30 pm

Each semester, professors receive letters from the Office of Student Disabilities Services (SDS) stating that one or more of their students are eligible for accommodations. What actions do faculty and staff need to take to facilitate the implementation of approved accommodations? This workshop will provide participants with information about the critical role that faculty and staff play in the accommodation process and how we can collaborate to support students with disabilities. Scenarios will be presented to illustrate some of the key issues in providing access for students with disabilities.
