

MEMORANDUM

TO: Penn Sophomore and Junior Scholars

FROM: Dr. Valarie Swain-Cade McCoullum
Vice Provost

DATE: January 31, 2018

RE: MELLON MAYS UNDERGRADUATE FELLOWSHIP

You are invited to apply for the Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship (MMUF) Program. The MMUF program supports and encourages “minority students and others with a demonstrated commitment to eradicating racial disparities” to enter and complete programs of graduate study leading to doctoral degrees in the humanities and selected social sciences.

Mellon Fellows receive benefits including paid national and international summer research internships, research support during the academic year, book stipends, graduate school application fees, access to disciplinary conferences, and other opportunities. Perhaps the most marvelous component of the program is the opportunity for inter-disciplinary study with many distinguished Penn faculty members. Penn Mellon Fellow alumni are currently pursuing doctoral studies at institutions including Columbia University, Duke University, New York University, Harvard University, the University of Southern California, the University of Michigan, the University of California at Berkeley and a number of other fine universities across the country. We are also proud to report that, thus far, twenty-five Penn Mellon Fellow alumni have received their doctoral degrees!

We plan to choose no more than four new program fellows to begin program activities immediately through their graduation from Penn. As a first phase of this application process, I ask that you complete the required application materials and submit the original and four copies, to Pat Ravenell at the address on the application, no later than March 23, 2018. Interviews will be scheduled shortly thereafter for applicants who are chosen by the Oversight Committee as semi-finalists.

I hope that you will consent to enter this fellowship competition.
